RazorMusic is designed to be a very simple music player, as simple as possible. The music player is based on a tabbed interface, to make it easier to use. It has two modes of operation: - Player mode is for playing songs, a 'player' can be selected. This controls the basic media player, such as play, pause, stop, forward and back. - Library mode is for playing lists of songs, which can be created from the media library. These lists can be sorted by artist, title or date and have play/pause/skip/back functionality. The player can be controlled with a GUI skin, which is very easy to use, and can be customised to suit your needs. RazorMusic comes with two skins to choose from, the 'Modern' skin and the 'Classic' skin. They are both suitable for casual users, with a modern interface and skin style, but also for people who want to create more advanced skins, the 'Modern' skin is made to accommodate this. RazorMusic is a simple yet powerful music player. It can play all music formats, including mp3, ogg, aiff, wav and wma files, and Main functionality Once the playlist is created, you can save it to PLS or M3U format for later use. In the playlist you can view the name of the band, track, album, duration, and genre. Also, a wide range of sorting settings are available for your playlist (e.g. by artist, album, title, year, length). More than that, you can choose the playback order (e.g. repeat track or all songs, play audio files in a random order), view song properties and edit them, and much more. Zinf Audio Player can be set to automatically save the current playlist upon exiting the GUI and display the toolbar in different ways (e.g. text and images, images, or only text). Unfortunately, the application doesn't feature hotkey support.
